PREFACE.

Modern catalogue making has turned in a different direction from that of the cumbersome and unwieldy book of the past that was in truth more of a history than it was a catalogue. The new direction has been along the paths of simplicity and utility and it has been the aim to guide this work along such ways, which are the lines of scientific catalogue making. Many have come to regard a catalogue as something which it is not, because it has been the custom to make of it a historical work or a compendium of facts, valuable in themselves, but whose place was not in a catalogue. A catalogue to be brief is nothing more or less than a directory of membership, a directory that contains the name, occupation and address of the men who have been enrolled in the fraternity. To these are added the birth year, date of initiation and special honors that have come from fraternity work. In addition, such facts as would be of general interest concerning an alumnus have been sought for, and where obtained have been entered. Matters of simple local interest and of college honors, if added, would have made of this catalogue a work of five volumes the size of this book. Its expense would have been accordingly greater and its value as a directory correspondingly less.

It is hoped it will be a satisfaction to the fraternity that the catalogue is a fact. Its history has not been satisfactory to the fraternity, but this has been the fault of a system rather than the fault of men. Other fraternities have met with the same trouble in bringing out catalogues that have slowly dragged through years of preparation, the men having the works in charge overwhelmed with the magnitude of their task, the rank and file, with no understanding of the labor involved, frequently acting as critics on a very slender basis of knowledge. The first steps toward the publication of this edition of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon catalogue were taken by the St. Louis convention of 1896, when Howard P. Nash, then Eminent Supreme Recorder of the fraternity was voted $500.00 for the preliminary expenses. Mr. Nash continued as editor of the catalogue for three years and a half and though naturally time and circumstances have obliterated evidence of much of his labor, there are indications still remaining that he laid good foundations for those to build upon who have followed him. In the summer of 1902 Mr. Nash was compelled to resign his office by the pressure of other duties and he was succeeded by Edward H. Virgin whose work extended over three years and a half more. Neither time nor circumstance can efface the evidence of the labor bestowed by Mr. Virgin in these years upon the preparation of this book. His work was a work of sacrifice for the fraternity. The Washington convention provided an assistant and Mr. Taylor was engaged and for a period of nine months was the assistant of Mr. Virgin in the work of preparation. When the present editor was searching for a suitable frontispiece for the catalogue he came across the splendid design of the coat of arms in colors which graces the front of this book. This was the work of Mr. Taylor which he has allowed us to use. The final work of the catalogue came into the hands of the present editor four months ago, on the resignation of Mr. Virgin. Scarcely aware of what remained to be done, the book was promised in a third of a year. The book is in your hands, an established fact, but at a cost of labor and exertion that may not be put down on paper. In this exertion has shared Avery Grannis who as an assistant has faithfully endeavored to bring the work to a climax. To many others is the editor indebted. It is impossible to name them all, their names are legion. If their names cannot be impressed upon the written page and the honors due them paid them here, I trust they will receive some satisfaction in knowing that they have performed a service for Sigma Alpha Epsilon, the fraternity they love, and that at least one will always remember them with gratitude as friendly helpers in a time of stress. To the chapter catalogue editors whose names appear on another page, much credit is due. To the secretaries of such alumni associations as replied to our call for help, credit is also due. And there are a few names whom the editor feels that ordinary courtesy compels him to publicly thank, their work was of such proportion. I refer to S. F. D. Reese, Dr. George H. Kress, Dwight Cameron, John P. Morley, Al F. Leue and Noah G. Klove, the work of the last on the final preparation of the book being one of the best examples of fraternity spirit and generous sacrifice it has been the good fortune of the editor to witness.

And, in conclusion, is it asking too much to request that the faults of the book be looked upon with a kindly eye? The man who sends the book forth feels that if time had not been the essence of the contract he might have done better.

WILLIAM C. LEVERE.

TENNESSEE ETA.

Southwestern Baptist University, Jackson, Tenn.

The Southwestern Baptist University, where this chapter is located, is the same institution as the old Union University of Murfreesboro, Tenn., and the West Tennessee College, these two colleges merging into the present institution. Accordingly the chapter rolls of former Tennessee Eta and Tennessee Lambda-Omega are properly included under the same head with the present day Tennessee Eta, their legitimate successor.
